

Making Inferences

FOLLOW ★ DIRECTIONS

Authors don't always tell readers everything about characters or events in a text, so you can use clues from the text and your own background knowledge to draw conclusions. This is called making an inference.

Clues from the Text

What I've Read: A dog that is normally quiet is barking at the neighbors' house.

Background Knowledge

What I Know from Experience: Dogs sometimes bark when they are upset.

Inference

Something unusual is happening at the neighbors' house!
